

Phlebotomy update (18/09/2019)

The current situation for having blood samples taken is as follows.

Regardless of whether a blood test has been requested by your GP or by the hospital, patients can:

-either go to a GP practice (Note: Appointment only services)

-or to a hospital for their blood test (See table below)

This means that both GP practices and Portsmouth Hospital Trust will now accept patients for blood tests based on where it is most convenient for them to attend. Patients will no longer be redirected elsewhere. This will particularly help those patients who have difficulty accessing services and/or have a need for regular tests.

Usually, patients will attend their own doctor's surgery, but they can use other surgeries if more convenient, but will need to make an appointment via their own surgery.
